CodePulse Corporation

Work From Home Policy

Dummy training document | Effective 1 January 2026

Purpose and Eligibility

This fictional policy describes work-from-home guidelines. Eligibility depends on job responsibilities, information-security requirements, team needs, and manager approval.

Example Work Arrangement

For this training example only, eligible employees may request up to two work-from-home days per week. This is a dummy rule for testing retrieval, not a guaranteed entitlement.

Availability and Equipment

Remote employees should remain reachable during agreed working hours, attend meetings, and keep calendars updated. Company equipment must be used according to IT security rules.

Data Security

Use approved secure connections and authorized applications. Do not copy confidential company information to personal storage without authorization. Protect screens and confidential calls.

Requesting WFH

Submit a WFH request to the manager in advance. Approval depends on business needs and security considerations. Approval for one date does not automatically approve future dates.

Contact and Disclaimer

Example contact: it-help@example.invalid. This document is fictional training data for learning PDF ingestion and RAG, not an actual company policy.